Consequences in the event a student tests positive for COVID-19

On April 28, we confirmed for the first time that one of our students had been infected with COVID-19. Classes were cancelled on the afternoon of that day, and all classes before the consecutive holiday period were switched to remote learning. In the event that more students test positive in the future, the university will need to take immediate action.

We encourage all students to be aware of the enormous impact that the inability to conduct face-to-face classes would have on other students. We strongly urge you to abide by the following basic infection control measures (measures to prevent yourself contracting the virus even if the person you are in contact with is infected), and to prevent the spread of infection by assuming that you could be infected yourself (acting with a mindset of not becoming infected or infecting others).

Recommendations:

- Do not have conversations or gather for meals without masks, and do not drink at home with friends
- Be sure to take meals in silence
- Avoid eating with friends as much as possible
- Keep meetings with people outside the university to a minimum
- Fill in the Health Check & Activity Log every day
- Thoroughly disinfect shared items (doorknobs, etc.)
